LA GRANDE
BELLEZZA

“Cilento, where the mermaid’s song is heard”

*Cilento is the section of Campania coast between Salerno and Policastro Gulfs.
An ancient land, Cilento is an authentic treasure chest with splendid small villages castled as nativity scenes and beaches of fine sand, cliffs, headlands and caves carved into the rock.*

Due to its wonderful nature, since 1991 Cilento has become a protected natural oasis (Cilento and Vallo di Diano National Park), included in the Unesco World Heritage Site.

It’s also the place that gave birth to the Mediterranean diet.

Castellabate

A small pearl of Cilento, in the heart of the National Park.

It's an ancient village of medieval origins which is not only included in the classification of the most beautiful villages in Italy, but it's also considered a World Heritage Site by Unesco.

The village, located about 300 meters above sea level, is characterized by narrow cobbled streets, ancient buildings that hide elegant courtyards and terraces that offer breathtaking landscapes.

The beauty of the coast and the clarity of the water have allowed the Castellabate area to conquer the Blue Flag, the Four Sails and the recognitions of Legambiente.

Punta Licosa

“Punta Licosa: land of mermaids among myths, legends and breathtaking views”

Punta Licosa is one of the most beautiful seaside resorts in the world, which can only be accessed by walk, along a long avenue of carob trees, pines and Mediterranean scrub bushes. Leucosia contains, in three kilometers of coast, stories capable of bewitching any dreamer.

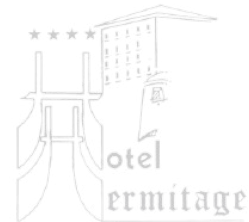

The protected area, which falls within the municipality of Castellabate, faces an islet which inspired the epic poet Homer. In fact, it's said that Ulysses, on the island of Licosa, had himself tied to the tree to listen the singing of the mermaids.

An extraordinary place which smells of history, myths and legends.

Punta Licosa is located about 5 kilometers from our hotel and can be reached by a pleasant pedestrian path that run along the sea.

Archaeological site of Paestum

Dating back to around 2500 years ago, Paestum is one of the most important archaeological parks in Magna Graecia and Europe.

Getting to know Paestum, the ancient Poseidonia, recognized among the Unesco world heritage sites, means embarking on a fascinating journey through history and art, immersing yourself in the suggestive atmospheres of ancient Greek and Roman culture: three Doric temples, the Temple of Hera, the Temple of Athena and the Temple of Poseidon are splendid examples of Greek archeology comparable in beauty only to the Parthenon in Athens.

The Archaeological Museum is also worth a visit, where the numerous finds found in the area are exhibited, including famous paintings such as the Tomb of the Diver, one of the few surviving examples of classical painting.
